GENERAL INFORMATION and SCOPE

The 11th International Congress for Stereology - Beijing Conference (XI ICS-Beijing) is a satellite conference of the XI ICS organized and sponsored in Beijing, China, by the Chinese Society for Stereology (CSS) authorized by both the International Society for Stereology (ISS) and the program committee of the XI ICS, in conjunction with the 10th Chinese National Conference of Stereology and Image Analysis. It is also the first important ICS meeting held in China. The CSS is trying her best to make it a historical event for the International Society for Stereology as well as in the field of image technology.

The scope of the Beijing Conference covers: principles and techniques of quantitative characterization and determination of three-dimensional structures and their morphology, with applications in biology, medicine, materials science and engineering, remote sensing, computer tomography, image technology, as well as computer modeling and image-related simulations. The conference pays more emphasis not only on stereology in its classical sense, but also on its new trends with extended applications in various scientific fields.

The congress is open to all people in any disciplines of science, technology, and engineering.

MAIN TOPICS

- A. Advances in Stereology Theories, Methodology, Techniques, and Application Tactics
- B. Application of Stereology, Image Analysis, Pattern Recognition, Computer Visualization in Materials Science, Bio-Medical and Related Scientific fields
- C. Advances in Image Analysis and Processing Techniques, Image Measurement, Related Instruments and Software Development, and User Experiences
- D. Related Theoretical, Experimental and Application Studies in Biology, Medicine, Materials Science and Metallurgy, Surface Science and Engineering
- E. Computerized Tomography Theories and applications: Medical CT/MRI/PET/SPECT, Industrial CT, Geo-Tomography and 3D Imaging
- F. Computer-Aided 3-D Imaging and Modeling, Image-Related Computer Simulation, Virtual Reality, and Their Applications in Various Scientific Fields
- G. Metallography, Microanalysis, Quantitative Fractography and Images-Based Studies
- H. Image Acquisition, Transformation and Processing, and Other Related Topics

VENUE and DATE

The 11th International Congress for Stereology - Beijing Conference will be held in:

China Resource Hotel, Beijing, China, November 4-8, 2003.

All the academic and technical presentations will be made on November 5 to 7, 2003.

Beijing, the capital of China and one of the biggest cities in the world, the cultural, economic, political, educational and transportation center of China. It is well known for its historical relics and scenic spots. More than 70 universities and more than 500 research institutes in various disciplines such as science, technology and humanities locate in Beijing. Hundreds of international conferences and events are held here every year. Especially, Beijing is preparing to host the 2008 Games of the XXIX Olympiad. Beijing Conference of the 11th International Congress for Stereology is also a possible great reuniting event for those interested both in stereology, image technology, and in Beijing-China. You will find that to attend this Conference in Beijing is a right decision.

FORMAT and LANGUAGE

The conference will include invited plenary lectures, contribution plenary presentations, parallel session presentations and free communications. The working languages include both English and Chinese. When the presentation is made in Chinese language, Chinese-to-English translation service would be provided.

PAPER PRESENTATION

Invited plenary lecture (Keynote): 30 min oral presentation plus 5 min discussion.

Plenary lecture: 20 min oral presentation plus 5 min discussion.

Parallel session presentation: 10 min oral presentation plus 5 min discussion.

All presentations are required to use POWERPOINT files. The Conference Organizer will provide a notebook computer with Windows 2000 or Windows XP and a projector on the conference site.

PROCEEDINGS

Accepted abstracts and full-length papers will be first published in the conference proceedings and available at the Conference Registration Desk.

After the peer review process at the conference, selected papers written in English will be published in ISS's official journal Image Analysis and Stereology and/or CSS's official journal Chinese Journal of Stereology and Image analysis. Qualified papers in Chinese will be published in Chinese Journal of Stereology and Image analysis only.

ABSTRACT AND FULL-LENGTH PAPER SUBMISSION

Submission of electronic version of Abstract and full-length paper by email is allowed. Manuscripts should be stored in text files with clearly identifiable file names. The type format is the same as the articles published in Image Analysis and Stereology for English contributions, while the type format is the same as the articles published in Chinese Journal of Stereology and Image analysis for Chinese contributions. MS word is the most preferable at the present moment.

Submissions in English should be sent to Professor Guoquan LIU, e-mail: G.Liu@ustb.edu.cn and materdesign@etang.com;

while submissions in Chinese should be sent to

Professor Dewen WANG, e-mail: wangdewen1938@yahoo.com.cn

New Deadline Date for abstract and full-length paper: September 16, 2003.

REGISTRATION and HOUSING

Please fill out and sign the Conference Registration Form attached at the end of this circular, mail or fax to:

Miss Ti JIANG,

The Chinese Society for Stereology,

Engineering Physics Building, Tsinghua University, Beijing 100084, China.

E-mail: css@digiarck.net, jiangtino1@163.com,

Fax: +86-10-62781133; Phone: +86-10-62776336

E-mailed registration can be used, but it is not considered as an official attendee registration.
